Eucalyptus Trees Ruin New Paving

MUIR AVENUE FOLKS
ARE ANXIOUS TO AVERT
SIDEWALK MENACE

Ocean Beach, Feb. 1, 1926.
Mr. Kirk Smith,
Editor "The Beach News":

Have you seen the new paving on DeFoe street? Isn't it a fine job? We all agree on that—but a sad blunder has befallen it.

Instead of taking out the eucalyptus trees in the parking, the contractor has cut off the roots of both sides, so as to get room to put in the curb and sidewalk, and left the trees standing (for a while). When these trees were young, the west wind slanted them all eastwardly, and as they grew and got heavy they leaned more and more, and they have no tap root. The soil is very sandy and when it gets wet, and a strong wind blows, they fall down. I have seen five of such cases in the length of a block.

Now it does not require extra sight to see the result of this work on DeFoe street. The first strong wind will blow them over, and the sidewalk and curb will be destroyed; then who will repair it?

Muir avenue is slated to be finished soon, and it is the best "treed" of any street in Ocean Beach. No one regrets more than I the loss of them, but we cannot have these trees and sidewalks, too, in the same place. And if it is to be done the same as on DeFoe street, we do not want the paving done, because it will surely be destroyed, and it is too much money to waste.

It will cost less to remove the trees than it will to grub the roots as on DeFoe street, and the wood would pay for the work.

The petitioners for paving Muir asked that acacia trees be planted in the place of the eucalyptus trees that are there now, and the petition is on file in the city hall.

Another objection to the eucalyptus tree is its appetite. No lawns or flowers, or anything else, can grow within quite a distance from them, and the acorns or seed pods that fall from them are hard to walk on, as we all know.

We look to our councilmen to see that we are protected in this matter, and have it a part of the contract to remove all of these big trees before paving.

Seriously Injured In Auto Collision

HENRY C. SEEBOLD
AND JOSEPH C. MUMFORD

VICTIMS OF CRASH

While returning from San Diego to Ocean Beach early last Tuesday evening Henry C. Seebold and Joseph C. Mumford were badly injured when their auto collided with a street car on India street. Mr. Seebold, who is a well-known plumber of 1874 Bacon street, was driving homeward in his Cleveland touring car, accompanied by Mr. Mumford, when the bus driven by R. C. Hauer is reported to have made a left hand turn into Ivy street. The car and the bus came together in a fearful crash.

Mr. Seebold was catapulted through the windshield of his car, while the steering wheel was broken off. He was badly lacerated by the splintered glass and received a fracture of the base of the skull when landing upon his head on the pavement.

Mr. Mumford was also severely cut and bruised by the force of the terrific impact, one of his ears being nearly severed by broken glass.

Both of the injured men were rushed to the Emergency hospital, where they were given treatment and later Mr. Seebold was transferred to the Mercy hospital, where his condition was found to be very serious. His attending physician, Dr. Mott Arnold, reports that he has great hopes for his recovery.

SPECIAL NOTICE

CLEVER AND BRIGHT

OCEAN BEACH BOY MAKES BIG HIT AT RECITAL

Appearing in a character dance as the only boy star among a fine group of pupils presented by Elsa E. Terheggen in a "Dance Recital" at the Wednesday clubhouse in San Diego on Friday evening Jan. 29, Buddy Faber won instant and most pronounced favor for his ability and cleverness. He is the bright and popular young son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Faber of 4967 Saratoga avenue, and only recently celebrated his sixth birthday. His picture in Chinese character costume appears herewith, and a more detailed review of the dance recital is given in "Katherine's Kollum" on another page of this issue.

JOHN KIDWELL BUYS MORE BUSINESS PROPERTY

ON NEWPORT AVENUE

John Kidwell has bought from the owner the vacant lot, 25x140 feet, adjoining his shoe shop at 4983 Newport avenue. The purchase price was $2100 cash, and Mr. Kidwell contemplates improving his holdings of 50x140 feet with a substantial two-story building. The plans will include two stores, with offices and apartments upstairs. A couple of bungalows will also probably be constructed in the rear, facing on the alley.

E. K. BURDETTE ELECTED MEMBER OF CONTROL BOARD BY SANITATION CLUB

At a meeting of the San Diego Sanitation club early this week, a board of control for 1926 was elected as follows: Gus Zuckweiler, Charles O. McNulty, George Black, E. K. Burdette, J. E. Miller, H. L. Dussell, A. C. Goeddel, H. D. Hubbs, H. F. Allison and Dan Snook.

"Ed" Burdette is a well and favorably known plumber of Ocean Beach, residing at 2005 Bacon street, where he also has established a completely equipped plumbing establishment. Officers of the Sanitation club will be appointed later by the newly elected board of control.

MISSION BEACH LIGHTING SYSTEM ASSURED

Notice was posted a couple of weeks ago about an ornamental lighting system scheduled for Mission Beach. Some of the property owners have been protesting the lights, and at last Monday's council meeting an hour's argument for and against the lights was heard. The council decided that no legal protests had been filed against the installation and referred the matter to the city attorney for preparation of papers necessary to further procedure, so bids will be asked for immediately. Hurrah for the bright lights!

"AFTER-SWIM" LUNCHEON

Mrs. A. L. Starr recently entertained some of the members of the Mission Beach Women's Swimming club with an "after-swim" luncheon. Those present were Mrs. Mann, Mrs. Claude Chambers, Mrs. Donald Starr, Mrs. John Coker, Mrs. Harry K. Turner, Donald Coker, Kendall Turner, and the hostess.

CHURCH ACTIVITIES

The Sunday school at Mission Beach, held on the corner of Strandway and Queenstown court, is steadily growing. Church services are held immediately after Sunday school at 10:45 a. m. All are welcome.

KINDERGARTEN POSTPONED

The school authorities report that the kindergarten will not open until next September.

HONORED WITH DINNER

Miss Norma Barr entertained with a dinner last Thursday, in honor of Miss Dorothy Aldridge, at her home, 733 Venice court. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Robertson, George Robertson, Miss Dorothy Aldridge, and the hostess.

Like An Angel From Heaven

RADIO BRINGS JOY TO THE BLIND

There are times when radio oversteps its bounds of entertainment and education and becomes a veritable angel from heaven.

Los Angeles county, California, maintains a school for blind children. Those little ones have but two sources of contact with the outside world—touch and hearing.

Then into their lives came radio. What a change! Expressionless faces became animated. The world of broadcasters lay at their pleasures at their door.

One of the older boys had been blind tinkering for months to con-

EARLY SPRING AWAKENINGS

Property sales are already showing a decided increase in Mission Beach. Many homes as well as lots have changed hands recently. Barney & Rife, sales agents for the Mission Beach company, have moved their real estate office to the corner of Ventura place and Mission boulevard, in the new office and hotel building, and H. B. Frisbie and Harry K. Turner are still on the job as salesmen. Every house containing any degree of convenience is rented, showing Mission Beach to be an ideal winter resort and year-round playground. Many homes are about to be built, and we need many more houses, or we will have to turn many summer visitors away as we did in the last two years. People are already sending in their reservations from distant cities to reserve cottages they occupied last summer. The ornamental lighting system will enhance the value of each lot at an average of about $250, and with all things combined a most prosperous summer is anticipated.

FREE HEALTH LECTURES

AT M. B. BATHHOUSE

Dr. Wilma Carmody, graduate medical and osteopathic physician, is an advocate of swimming and walking as health aids for women. She will give a series of free health lectures for the Mission Beach Women's Swimming club at the Mission Beach bathhouse every Wednesday morning in connection with the weekly meeting of the swimming club. All women invited, whether or not they are members of the club.

VANCOUVER VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Jones and Harold Hastings, of Vancouver, B. C., have been staying on Manhattan court for the past two months.

BRIDGE LUNCHEON

Mrs. John Coker was hostess at a bridge luncheon last week. Those present were Mrs. Cartwright, Betty Jean and Sonny Cartwright, Mrs. Claude Chambers, Mr. John Coker, Doris, Donald, Norman and Roger Coker, and the hostess.

Honor Awarded Young Navy Man

DAVID SUMMERVILLE
LOCKWOOD

The above excellent likeness of David Summerville Lockwood is reproduced from a photograph furnished "The Beach News" by F. A. Luenser, of the U. S. Navy recruiting station at 145 South Broadway, Los Angeles, Calif. The original picture was recently received with the following voluntary testimonial concerning the splendid achievements of a well and favorably known young man of Ocean Beach:

"David Summerville Lockwood is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Lockwood, residing at 4896 Long Branch avenue, Ocean Beach, and recently graduated with high honors from the Naval Training Station at San Diego, having enlisted September 18, 1925, at the navy recruiting station, foot of Broadway, San Diego, Calif.

"Honor men are those who have made the most progress in instructions and drills and because of their very neat personal appearance and application to duty in their respective companies. These qualities are highly commendable by the commanding officer of the training station, and all men with such exceptional records are awarded responsible positions as leaders of men."

San Diego Boosted By Los Angeles

POSITIVE PREDICTION

FOR GREAT GROWTH OF
CITY AND SUBURBS

On the front page of the real estate section of last Sunday's Los Angeles "Examiner," a special illustrated article by H. W. Waters told, under a big display head, some glittering facts concerning the great growth of San Diego in business and building lines.

"Watch San Diego!" states Mr. Waters, "with towering business blocks rising in the downtown district and unabated residence construction in all districts, this metropolis (San Diego) promises to be one of the fastest growing cities of California."

Quietly, with almost as much ease as a mile-runner passes the quarter-mile mark, San Diego has in the last five years doubled her population—a record hard to beat, yet San Diego plans to continue this pace under the slogan of '250,000 in 1930.' Perhaps this has something to do with the fact that San Diego is good and has prospects for getting better."

Further commenting most favorably on the present era of extraordinary development throughout San Diego and its splendid suburbs, Mr. Waters emphasized the fact that Los Angeles capitalists, real estate brokers and business men are aware of the present optimistic conditions in San Diego, and are acting accordingly.

Among a number of recent investments and developments on a large scale in San Diego, the article called special attention to the remarkable transformation made in Mission Beach and the wonderful development by the John P. Mills organization of immense residential subdivisions on Point Loma.

Coming To Coast In Great Numbers

TOURISTS ARRIVALS

MAY BREAK ALL RECORDS
—DURING THIS YEAR

It is officially announced that all former records for tourists travel to Southern California will very likely be broken this year, the three great transcontinental railroads already being taxed to the limit in providing accommodations for travelers bound to the Pacific coast.

DEVELOPMENT AGENT

GREATLY IMPRESSED WITH

RAPID BEACH GROWTH

O. D. Tibbetts, traveling agricultural development agent, with the Great Northern Railway company, of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, arrived in San Diego a few days ago for a short visit with his folks at Ocean Beach. Mr. Tibbetts reports conditions in South Dakota, Minnesota and Iowa (the territory he covers) as fairly good. He says farmers are gradually getting on their feet again and business conditions are improving. Mr. Tibbetts makes a trip to California every year, and spoke very highly of the rapid improvements in San Diego and Ocean Beach. He hopes some day to make his permanent home in this glorious section of Southern California. Mr. Tibbetts was a most welcome and agreeable caller at "The Beach News" office during his annual visit here. He is a breezy and interesting talker, with a vast fund of information on realty and building topics.

In California They Don't Know It's Winter

Out in California the weather is so fine that the members of the Beautification association are transforming the rolling hills of the San Gabriel valley into beautiful flower gardens as one means of expressing a welcome to the newcomer to southern California. Our photograph shows a number of members of the association at work.

Arica Boundary Obscure When This River Goes Dry

The above photograph was taken near the source of the River Sama, the boundary line, according to the award, between Tarata and Tacna, Arica. Unfortunately the river was dry in so many places that the boundary commission headed by Gen. Jay J. Morrow, a distinguished member of the United States engineer corps and former governor of the Panama Canal Zone, is finding considerable difficulty in placing the exact boundary.

Two Treaties With Mexico Signed

Two treaties with Mexico, one to prevent the smuggling of aliens across the border, the other to provide for extradition of criminals, were signed at the State department. After a brief ceremony, signatures were affixed by the Mexican ambassador, Manuel Tellez (left), and the secretary of state, Frank B. Kellogg.

Plan Alaska Photography Flight

Navy flyers are shortly to make an airplane flight to Alaska to photograph that territory from the air. This photograph shows Lieut. W. M. Dillon, U. S. ## CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

"It's a Privilege to Live in California."

Charging that Willard D. Ellis, president of the Federal Farm Loan bank at Berkeley, is cloaking certain affairs of the bank with secrecy, that the federal farm loan system is fast assuming all the characteristics of a particularly autocratic bureaucracy and declaring that access to records has been denied, George H. Sawyer, recently re-elected a director of the bank, a short time ago issued a public statement exposing the alleged conditions. Sawyer, a farmer of Waterford, Stanislaus county, and former president of a bank, hints in his statement at a plot to wrest further control away from the farmers. Sawyer declared that although farmers own 84 per cent of the stock, they have little or no voice in the affairs of the bank at Berkeley.

Nicholas Quirola, whose romantic efforts to reach California in the days of the gold rush read like a piece of melodramatic fiction, is dead in Auburn, Placer county, at the age of 91 years. He left no known relatives, so it is a puzzle as to who will get his estate amounting possibly to $25,000. Quirola was a native of Italy and was living in that county when the news came that gold had been discovered in California. He made his way to Naples, where he succeeded in stowing himself away on an outbound steamer. Arriving in New York, he succeeded in getting a job before the mast on a sailing ship bound for California around the Horn, reaching San Francisco in the fall of 1850.

Plans for the expansion of the Stockton Graham Brothers assembling plant was discussed in Detroit on January 6 between officials of the company and Robert A. Houston, plant superintendent, who is now in that city. Tentative plans for four new units, each costing approximately $50,000, have been prepared. It was planned to proceed with two of these units prior to the recent merger of the Dodge and Graham Brothers interests, but Houston now believes that authorization may be given for the construction of all four units. The addition of these units would add about 250 employees to the payroll of the company in Stockton.

A building revival in Visalia, Tulare county, has been noted for the past three months of 1925; as compared with the other nine months of the year, and would appear to indicate the approach of conditions much nearer normal than for some time. Building permits for the past three months in Visalia represented 40 per cent of the year's total, which exceeded $50,000.

An agreement for the purchase of 148 acres of the Jackson tract south of Yuba City, Sutter county, by Henry Kleinsorge and John K. Granacher from J. Allen Jackson for the sum of $52,000 has been filed for record in the office of County Recorder Planey. The tract is orchard land, lying between the old levee and Feather river. All is reclaimed bottom land.

Every year California produces raw by-products of milk worth $1,000,000, according to Dr. J. J. Frey, bureau of dairy control, state department of agriculture, at Sacramento. After these raw materials, mostly dried casein, come into the hands of manufacturers, they are made into articles for which the consumer probably pays in the neighborhood of $10,000,000.

Arthur C. Mason, government entomologist of Lindsay, Tulare county, his wife and son, left recently for San Francisco, whence they will sail for Honolulu, where Mason will undertake a new commission for the United States department of agriculture. Mason has been studying the life history of citrus thrips and recently completed this work.

The continued lack of rain in California has retarded the buying of feeder cattle, due to the lack of grass, according to the California Cattle-men's association. The demand for feeders has been good, but unless heavy rains occur during the month of January, the supply of cattle on grass will be less than normal.

Enlargement of the Southern Pacific's service facilities during 1926, which will see the completion of its new line connecting California and Oregon through Klamath Falls and its new main line in Arizona through Phoenix, was made the subject of a New Year's message to its employees by William Sprout, president.

State Controller Ray L. Riley recently reported that the semi-annual settlement of counties with the state totaled $4,524,637.49, about $200,000 in excess of the preliminary estimates. Of the total $5,988,219.23 represented inheritance taxes collected by the counties for the state during the six months ending in December.

Modesto is riding on the crest of the wave of prosperity, according to bank clearings for 1925, which exceed those of the previous year by over $10,000,000. The total clearings for 1925 are $111,450,820. This is over $10,000,000 more than 1924, according to figures released by the Modesto Clearing House association.

Thirty members of the Merced Boys' club visited Exchequer dam and the upper works of the Merced irrigation district recently. K. L. Parker, assistant superintendent of construction, met the party and conducted the ladies over the dam and works.

The Redding, Shasta county, Methodist church has received a pipe organ that will be installed in the near future.

The Santa Monica Water company of Petaluma, Sonoma county, is negotiating to secure six thousand acres of land near Inverness.

Excavation has started for a 32-room hotel in Stockton, San Joaquin county. The proposed hotel building is to cost between $50,000 and $55,000.

Construction of a blooming mill at a cost of $280,000 as a new unit to the Columbia Steel company's plant in Pittsburg, Contra Costa county, was started recently.

The new postoffice building in Truckee, Nevada county, has been completed. The new building is a modern 2-story brick structure, costing approximately $10,000.

The Vallejo, Contra Costa county, city council has gone on record as favoring signing a contract for plans for the $80,000 city hall and branch county jail to be erected this year.

Sponsored by the Native Daughters of the Golden West, a women's band has been organized in Jackson, Amador county, and plans to give a number of concerts next summer.

North Sacramento is experiencing one of the largest building advances in its history and for the new year there is promise of an exceptionally large number of new industries.

Plans have been completed for calling a special election in Porterville, Tulare county, February 2 for the purpose of choosing fifteen freeholders to draw up a charter form of government.

The Oakdale irrigation district, in Stanislaus county, shows a gain of 26 per cent in the amount of land under irrigation over 1924, according to a crop census just completed by President H. S. Crowe.

An architect is preparing plans for a reinforced concrete grammar school building for the Sausalito grammar school district, to be erected at Sausalito, Marin county. The structure will cost about $60,000.

Mary B. Harrison of 2320 Seventh street, Sacramento, was the first Sacramento to receive a set of the new 1926 blue and white auto license plates at the office of the motor vehicle department.

Judge William H. Waste was sworn in as chief justice of the California supreme court at a special ceremony in the courtroom in San Francisco. Supreme Justice Emmett Seawell administered the oath.

Law violators seem to be on the increase in Lodi, San Joaquin county. In 1923 there were 478 arrests, in 1924, 322, and in the year just closed 643, on which the city recorder assessed fines totaling $9,114.50.

Emanuel S. Heller, 61, vice-president of the Wells-Fargo Bank and Union Trust company, and one of the most prominent attorneys in the west, died at his home in San Francisco after an illness of two months.

A new plant, the cost yet undetermined, will be built in Modesto, Stanislaus county, soon by the Poultry Producers' Association of Central California, L. D. Thompson, manager of the local branch, has announced.

The Western Harvester company, a new subsidiary of the Caterpillar Tractor company, which opened the former Holt plant in Stockton, San Joaquin county, for operation, will reach normal manufacturing activities within thirty days.

Annexation of a rapidly growing section in the western part of the city of Stockton, San Joaquin county, is being considered by the West Side Improvement club. The territory in question is located in subdivision No. 2 of the Boggs tract.

Steps have been taken by State Surveyor General W. S. Kingsbury to exchange 50,000 acres of state school lands in federal forest reserves for a like amount of land in the reserves as a site for a state park in accordance with legislation enacted in 1923 and 1925.

For the first time in more than sixty years St. Patrick's Catholic church in Watsonville, Santa Cruz county, is out of debt, according to the Rev. Father P. J. McGrath, who is just completing his first year as pastor. In addition to wiping out the standing debt, the church has installed a pipe organ at a cost of $12,000.

California's oldest woman miner, one of the few miners, in fact, of her sex, is Mrs. Emma C. Mable, 79, of Brown Bear mine, near Deadwood, Trinity county. Mrs. Mable, an expert with the pick, shovel and drill despite her age, is working the famous gold producer of early days with her son, Curtis P. Mable.

Lodi's (San Joaquin county) post-office passed the required $40,000 mark by $180.15 and thus gained her position in the list of first class post-offices, as is shown by the final check-up of the receipts for the year of 1925, which amounted to $2,548,34 more than the previous year, when the total was $37,631.81.

The mill owned by Enhorning and Harrison, near Susanville, Lassen county, and known as the Diamond Mountain mill, is being dismantled and moved to a stand of timber near Engel mine, in Plumas county, where the owners plan to operate this coming spring.

San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda and San Joaquin county will be delegated the function, hitherto only exercised by the state, of placing orphan babies in homes and the care and adoption of orphans in their jurisdiction, it was recently announced by the public welfare board.

BABY COWBOY SLAYS FATHER WITH "TOY" GUN

Bullet Ends Parent's Life as He Praises Child at Play.

New York.—All evening long three-year-old Oazueros Manos rode through the house on a broomstick-horse, bravely clicking two cap pistols and snuffing out the lives of numberless imaginary Indians. He cried delightedly:

"Papa, I'm a cowboy!"
"Isn't that nice?"
"Papa, look!—you're an Indian. I'm going to shoot you!"

A second later the father, Anostatos Manos, dropped mortally wounded with a bullet in his heart.

The child had discarded a toy pistol and picked up his father's .32-caliber revolver.

Mother Is Shocked.
The mother, in the kitchen, screamed. The three-year-old child, shocked, dropped the smoking gun and started to cry.

"Mamma, I'm hurt!"
The mother rushed in and carried her husband to the bed.

Patrolman Connaghton of the West Thirtieth street police station, hearing the shot, rushed to the house.

Within a half-hour Anostatos Manos, forty-three, a chestnut peddler, had died at Bellevue hospital.

Physicians telephoned the news to the Tenth avenue home. The stricken en wife fainted. The child, unable to realize what had happened, laughed.

The Gun Exploded.

Held Great Fun.
He thought it had been great fun. All evening he had been proudly exhibiting his two cap pistols. They clicked and looked like regular revolvers.

He romped through the house, "slaying" all who crossed his path.
"Thing finally, he wandered around looking for new experience."

His father's .32-caliber revolver lay on a box nearby. It looked familiar. This made three guns he had now.

Attempting to imitate his former play, he looked around for the enemy.

He saw his father.
"Oh, papa, look!"

He pulled the trigger. The gun exploded.
That was all. Except that police are in a quandary. They do not know what disposition to make of the child, who answers all questions and discusses in detail what happened.

Stork Leaves Triplets; Electrician Is Shocked

New York.—Louis Brodsky, master electrician, was upset when he was obliged to work, knowing that his wife had just given birth to a baby boy. Brodsky was expected to buy the baby a pair of shoes and some other things, and it was necessary to work without taking time out.

Needless to say, his mind was not on his work at all. The Brodskys already had two children, and Louis congratulated himself on the birth of the third. The nurse had telephoned him at the Broadway theater in Long Island City.

"Louis," cried the nurse in glee, "it's a boy!"

"Yes, of course, and I am very happy," replied the electrician.

"No, you don't know," contradicted the nurse. "It's another boy—it's twins, Louis. Ain't that grand?"

Louis avowed that it was, but he dropped the receiver on the hook a trifle dazed. But the telephone was ringing again.

"I know all about it," said the electrician. "Another boy."

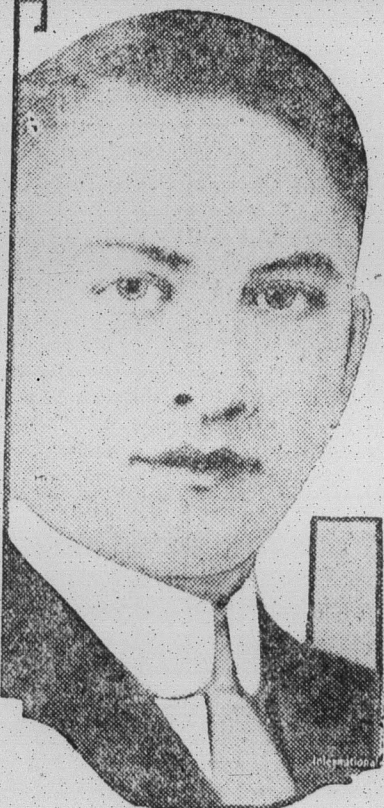

"You don't know," said the voice. "It's a girl. It's triplets, Louis, two boys and a girl."

Brodsky rushed home in a cab.

Thought Dead

Philadelphia.—Given up as dead by his family, after he had disappeared while on a trip to Coney Island four months ago, Samuel Tushban, thirty-five years old, a Brooklyn druggist, was located in the private sanatorium of Dr. H. L. Randal, at Chestnut Hill. He was identified at the sanatorium by Michael Rose, a former business associate.

FAILS; IN PRISON

Walter C. Rippberger, real estate banker of Elgin, Ill., whose firm has failed with losses of probably $1,000,000, to the great distress of thousands of persons who had entrusted their savings to it. Rippberger is in jail on charges of forging the notes of prominent Elgin business men.

To Lower Upkeep of Your Receiver

Use of Potentiometer Will Insure Longer Life of Batteries.

With some sets, such as the neodyne and other radio frequency receivers, the battery upkeep is comparatively high. As a general rule the "B" batteries will not last more than a couple of months.

By the sketch you will see a circuit of two stages of radio frequency, which is similar to a neodyne. This circuit shows the B battery saver, as we call it, and is nothing more than a 200,000 to 500,000-ohm potentiometer. This can be controlled from the panel and enables you to reduce the B battery voltage to the point where you are getting sufficient volume, yet are using as small an amount of B battery current as possible.

By-Pass Condensers.
The purpose of the by-pass condensers is to pass all radio frequency current. With these condensers the current goes from the plate through the transformer and the by-pass condenser, then back to the filament, where otherwise it would have to go through the B batteries.

You may wish to know why we cannot use this resistance in the grid circuit to prevent oscillations. It would prevent oscillations all right but, since the by-pass condensers pass all radio frequency, the tuning condenser would be of no value.

Would Affect Volume.

The reason we cannot use it in the audio-frequency circuit is because there is no radio frequency to be passed by the condenser and the current would have to go through the resistance and this would affect the volume.—Philadelphia Record.

Inexpensive Device to Save Your Radio Tubes

After you have wired up your new set, you carefully check the wiring before inserting the tubes. With all your care, however, you sometimes notice a bright flash as soon as a tube is inserted in a socket and another tube or set of tubes have gone west.

To avoid this, take the base of an old tube and remove the glass bulb. Trace the fine wires that lead to the filaments and solder these wires to the side of a small automobile or flashlight bulb that takes six volts. Now trace the grid wire and solder a piece of flexible wire to it, and the same with the wire leading to the plate. Next melt some sealing wax into the socket and set the bulb in the center, being sure to keep all leads well apart.

To test the filaments, connect the batteries, then insert the tester in each of the sockets one at a time.

Arrangement That Enables Fan to Trace Trouble.

If the bulb lights you are O. K. Suppose, however, it burns out, then you know you have your B battery shorting on the filament.

To check the grid and plate contacts on the tubes and to see that they are making good contact, insert the tester in the socket. Now connect the wire coming from the grid to one side of a small bulb, connect the other side of the bulb to a battery, and the other side of the battery connect to the grid terminal on the socket. This will give you a positive indication as to whether the tube will make good contact. The plate contacts can be tested in the same manner.—Philadelphia Record.

RADIO WAVES

The heart of a vacuum tube is the filament. Only a high resistance voltmeter should be used to test condition of dry cells of batteries.

A crystal detector, as well as a vacuum tube detector, can be amplified to almost any degree.

A carefully installed indoor antenna will often give very nearly the same results as an outdoor aerial. Experience and a little study of the art of tuning are necessary for the successful operation of any radio receiver.

WHITE MOUNTAIN GOATS

"I'm sure I can't help it, I'm sure I can't," said the White Mountain Goat to his neighbor.

"What can't you help?" asked his neighbor, another White Mountain Goat.

"I can't help it because I am dirty," said the White Mountain Goat.

"As far as that is concerned," said the neighbor White Mountain Goat, "I am no better."

"But doesn't it seem a pity?" asked the White Mountain Goat.

"It does," said the neighbor, "but we can't help it."

"Just what I said, just what I said," remarked the White Mountain Goat.

"We can't help it," he repeated. "But it is a disgrace to our family name. We are called the White Mountain Goat family, and outside our yard, here in the zoo, is a sign which reads:

"The White Mountain Goats."

"Well, we are White Mountain Goats," said the neighbor, "The sign is all right. There is nothing the matter with it. The sign speaks the truth."

"Of course," said the White Mountain Goat, "the sign itself doesn't speak the truth."

"The sign can't speak, for that matter. But the truth has been written upon the sign—or in some way put up on the sign so it reads as it does.

Neighbor White Mountain Goat.

"Someone who knew what we were, put that upon the sign. It's a fortunate thing that they don't let anyone write upon those signs, or print upon those signs."

"There'd be some funny mistakes, if that were the case. I've heard people at the zoo make the most extraordinary mistakes in animals."

"I've heard a leopard called a tiger and a tiger called a leopard and I've even heard a hippopotamus called a rhinoceros."

"Yes, I've even heard that," said the neighbor, "I don't suppose they would let any such ignorant person put up the signs."

"Then, too, visitors can't be expected to know us right away. It is by coming to see us, or by reading about us or by seeing our pictures that they get to know us."

"They even make mistakes in each other. I've seen one person speak to another and have to explain who he was before the other remembered her."

"And then the other person would say:

"Of course, of course. You will forgive me, won't you? You see, my dear, I haven't seen you in such a long time."

"That is so," said the White Mountain Goat, "but of course, it is harder, I should think, to tell one person from another than a rhinoceros from a hippopotamus."

"But we don't live up to the family name. We aren't white. We are quite soiled, quite. We are too active, we do too much."

"Yes, that is why we don't keep white," said the neighbor, "but in the spring when we shed our coats and are all dressed up for the summer we are white. Then we are worthy of the family name."

"True," said the White Mountain Goat, "but it isn't always the spring. The other day, a child passed in front of our yard with another, and she said:

"See, little sister, there is a sign which says those animals are white mountain goats, but they're not very white-looking."

"That made me very sad."

"My dear White Mountain Goat, you mustn't be sad," answered his neighbor, "for we cannot help it as we have both agreed. If we could help it, it would be different and we would disgrace the family name. But it is better to grow a little dirty-looking and keep busy than to be idle and to look as white as snow—when snow is white. Even snow gets dirty!"

"That's so," agreed the White Mountain Goat. "Your words have cheered me up a great deal. And now I am to be cheered still more."

For just then the keeper brought the goats their favorite meal of oats and clover.

Cost of Liberty Bell

The order for the Liberty bell was placed with Robert Charles, a London bell-founder, in 1851 and specified a weight of 2,000 pounds and a cost of 100,000 pounds sterling. It arrived in August, 1752. A clapper stroke cracked it while being tested and it was recast by a Philadelphia twice before it met the tests. It was hung in the steeple in June, 1753. When it was cracked again in 1783, a new bell replaced it.

ONLY MONEY WORTH HAVING IS MONEY AT WORK

The treasury department estimates that there are 8000 misers in America, who keep their hoardings merely to gloat over them. The estimate is that $400,000,000 in cash is hidden away in mattresses, holes in the wall, in socks, in various clever or foolish places, instead of being deposited in safe banks. Money hidden away and not used is essentially dead. Much of it is destroyed in fires, by rats, by the death and forgetfulness of the holders. It's an utterly foolish thing to do—to slave away to earn money, putting one's lifeblood into it, and they lay it away to mould or to be stolen or lost. The only money worth having is the money at work.

ERA OF GOOD WILL

FOR LABOR AND CAPITAL

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, sends a statement to the American press, that in his opinion we have entered upon an era of good will in the relation of labor and capital.

During the past year great progress was made in learning how these great forces of society can live together; and organized labor, in his opinion, sees in the new year a hopeful outlook for industry.

For labor, he declares emphatically that the ultimate purposes which material benefits are to serve are essentially spiritual.

He says this end can only be accomplished in the highest degree by keeping in mind that workers are humans seeking opportunity and enterprise worthy to engage their time, and working to higher ideals.

To this end they seek co-operation and understanding, contending for justice and opportunity, without waste of energy and resources.

 our advertising columns.

POTATOES MAKE GOOD RECORD IN 1925

POTATOES were a very profitable crop in 1925, according to a survey made by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. The acreage was the smallest since 1919 and the yield the lowest since 1917. Following four years of overproduction and very low prices, the 1925 season started off with a good price, which increased daily. The peak will be reached in spring shipments. The annual consumption of 3½ bushels per capita, including seed, is 370,000,000 bushels. The 1925 crop is estimated at 323,243,000 bushels or 46,757,000 bushels under normal consumption.

The 1925 crop is 24 per cent less than the crop produced in 1924, but the ratio of consumable potatoes for the two years may vary still more in favor of the 1925 crop.

With the acreage cut severely all over the country in 1925, the opening prices started out on a higher scale than the peak prices for 1924 and began to increase at digging time until they reached in some instances $3.50 and $4 per hundredweight at local shipping stations. Every grower should save seed for next spring, as all indications point to high-priced seed potatoes for 1926 with an exception that the acreage planted will be larger in 1926.

SMOKING ON THE JOB

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

HUNTINGTON was president of a large corporation which employed a considerable number of men. I was visiting him in Birmingham when he said to me one evening:

"You'll have to excuse me tonight, for I'm invited to a meeting of some of our employees, and I want to go."

Then he explained to me that a number of the men in the various departments of the business had gotten together for mutual improvement. Only those men were asked to join the group who had a real interest in the development and the welfare of the business and who were putting their best efforts into the work. The thing that interested me most was the method of choosing the men. Only those men who never "smoked on the job" were taken in.

It was not that the members were opposed to smoking or that they did not themselves smoke—most of them, if the truth were told, liked their pipe or a good cigar. They had come to realize that there is a time and place for everything, and that the man who had to stop in the midst of his work to fill his pipe, or to light his cigar, or to roll a cigarette was hardly likely to be entering into his work wholeheartedly. His own personal comfort and pleasure were, for the time being, placed ahead of his work. They did not want him in their energetic circle.

I've noticed a good deal of smoking on the job since Huntington told me the story of his organization.

Nancy and I were invited out to dinner a few days ago—a dinner where all the people there excepting ourselves were young people under twenty-four. The rooms were full of smoke when we arrived. Almost every man there was giving quite as much attention to his cigarette as he was to the young woman who was his guest, and though many of the young women were, perhaps, not especially annoyed by the smoke-infested air, the general smoking in no way contributed to their comfort, or pleasure, or entertainment.

It seemed to me a case of thoughtless discourteous smoking on the job, for when a young fellow invites a girl to be his guest, he is under more than ordinary obligations to devote himself to giving her the pleasantest evening possible. His job is to entertain her, to contribute to her pleasure, and to exhibit some finesse in doing so. When he smokes, he is for the time being diverted from his real job, he is selfishly giving attention to his own personal pleasure, and is not considering her. They were just a little crude.

This is not an argument against smoking. We might, in point of fact, eliminate the smoking of tobacco from the discussion entirely and the text would still apply. When a man has a job, whether it is making fence rails or entertaining a girl or preaching a sermon, he should devote himself to it. When he stops in the midst of his work for his own personal pleasure, he's "smoking on the job."

Efficiency Boss

Herbert D. Brown is chief of the government's bureau of efficiency and makes it his daily business to tune up government machinery so that it will operate more smoothly and economically. He spends an appropriation of $150,000 a year and invites congress to cut off the money whenever he fails to save one hundred times that amount.

NOTED TENOR

VISITING HIS PARENTS

IN OCEAN BEACH

Mr. Patrick Hyland, a tenor of note and a student with the great masters of New York and Boston, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Byrne, of Newport avenue, Ocean Beach. Mr. Hyland, who has filled a number of engagements recently, will sing in Los Angeles in two weeks, prior to his going back to Boston. Mr. Hyland's voice is a beautiful, soft and pleasing tenor of the John MacCormack quality. Mr. Hyland sang in Sacred Heart church last Sunday at the 8:30 mass. He will also render a few selections Sunday, Feb. 7, at the same hour. Pastor and people feel very grateful to be privileged to listen to the singing of such a gifted tenor.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

HAPPILY CELEBRATED

Dr. Rose McFall gave a dinner party upon the anniversary of her birth, on Thursday evening last. Among the guests were her daughter and husband; Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Dowell and her niece, Mrs. Nola Nean, all of San Diego, and Mrs. Carrie Borchard. The decorations were in pink and white. The birthday cake, the gift of her niece, was very artistic and beautiful, with the words, "Wish You One Hundred More Birthdays," in pink letters across the top. Suffice it to say, all will look forward to another birthday anniversary of Dr. McFall.

"DANSE RECITAL" BY

MISS TERHEGGEN'S PUPILS

PROVES VERY DELIGHTFUL

Three clever Ocean Beach girls and a bright Ocean Beach boy distinguished themselves at a delightful "Danse Recital" given by the pupils of Miss Elsa E. Terheggen on Friday evening, Jan. 29, at the Wednesday clubhouse in San Diego. The charming young misses were Betty Jane Bryan and Leola and Arlein Schirol, while Buddy Faber had the happy honor of being the only boy star among a dozen or more girl satellites in a splendid dance program. Another young terpsichorean artist of Ocean Beach, Eileen Finley, was prevented from taking part in the recital owing to illness. The evening's entertainment was most enjoyably begun with the appearance of Betty Jane Bryan as "The Fairy," in which role the dainty little girl proved entrancingly delightful, while her dance movements were the acme of gracefulness. As the third number on the program, the appearance of Leola Schirol and Buddy Faber in a Chinese dance was warmly applauded, and they had to return and do some extra steps to satisfy the admiring throng of spectators. The well-matched young dancers were very richly and becomingly dressed in appropriate Chinese costumes and their dance steps and "kow-tow-ings" carried the customary Oriental atmosphere. An idea of their splendid appearance may be gained from the excellent likeness of Buddy Faber printed on the front page of this paper. In the role of "Le Secret," Arlein Schirol met with deserved favor, and all of the dancers, individually and collectively, gave wonderful evidence of the exceptional ability of Miss Terheggen as a thorough and conscientious teacher of the terpsichorean art.

DELIGHTS WAR MOTHERS

The following interesting description of the recent meeting of the Gold Star and War Mothers in Ocean Beach has been kindly furnished "The Beach News" by Mrs. Agnes C. Wier, of La Jolla:

Friday, Jan. 29, a number of American War Mothers of Golden Poppy Chapter, San Diego, met at the home of Mother Mary Lavigne (Gold Star mother), Ocean Beach, to celebrate the seventy-first anniversary of her natal day. Each mother brought a lunch, and when spread on the table, which had been tastefully decorated with flowers, presented a most inviting appearance. A large cake had been made for the occasion by Mother Lavigne, but as a surprise the War Mothers had a cake, beautifully decorated with red, white and blue candles, surrounding the figures "71," which were formed of pink and white. After enjoying the delicious lunch, music and various amusements were indulged in. Later two War Mothers called at the office of "The Beach News" and extended an invitation to its editor and wife to lunch with the War Mothers. They were graciously received by Mrs. Kirk Smith, and through her kindness mothers can keep in touch with the "doings" of the organization through the columns of this newsy paper. This visit was the first of many mothers to Ocean Beach and they were delighted with the beauties of ocean and surprised at the business activities of this thriving beach town. After a delightful day, the mothers prepared to leave, but before going they presented Mother Lavigne with a crepe de chine dress as a birthday gift from the chapter. Those who enjoyed the day were Mothers Alma Young (president), Galloway, Ferguson, Erson, Parks, Simar, Wier, Wullie, Roberts, McCall, Single, and the honoree, Mother Lavigne.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

THE TRUE VICTORS

AFTER all that is said and sung about those oft heralded persons whose names appear with frequency on the most conspicuous pages of our newspapers and magazines, it is questionable whether in the stern battles of life they are true victors.

While they wear their laurels with becoming modesty, you will find, if you question them in their more serious moods that they are not at all satisfied with the distinction which is so generously accorded them.

The glare of the lime-light hurts their sensitive eyes and destroys their peace. It robs them of the sweet quietude of home which to them is dearer than praise.

At a change of the wind or the burst of a storm, their names sometimes wither like leaves in the frosty air of autumn.

Some were cast for leading parts, but the great majority forgot their lines, faltered and failed at the crucial moment, though clad in fine linen and royal purple.

It is not the man who succeeds in attaining wealth, or the woman who excels in dressing her hair and encircling her shapely neck with priceless diamonds and pearls who shall sit in the cool of the day among the true victors, but the lowly who have striven to make others happy and through trial and tribulation kept the faith.

The gentlefolk, the charitable and kindly are the true victors.

Their names are not blazed before an applauding and forgetful world. But instead, the good they have done, the heavy burdens they have lightened for fellow travelers have blazoned their remembrance in imperishable letters in myriad homes and hearts and made life for the unfortunate a perennial spring.

Possibly you may be on speaking terms with such persons, but if you are not seeking them out, cultivate their companionship and imitate in so far as you are able their adorable attributes.

You will know them by the light in their eyes, the smile on their faces, their gentle demeanor and their softly modulated voices that never irritate or hurt.

The Hotel Stenographer

By Roe Fulkerson

"KELLY," asked the Hotel Stenographer, "why don't you run for alderman in our ward?"

"Aw, I dunno," said the House Detective. "If they want me, let 'em ask me."

"Kelly," suggested the girl, "that's a fat job. The fatter the job the less likely it will be to run after you. Fat jobs, like fat people, get winded easily and they never chase any one very far."

"I do not know what this town is coming to, Kelly. Last year four aldermen on the city council were not Irish. The next thing we know they will elect Chinamen or something."

"It is high time that stalwart Americans were aroused to their sense of duty to the republic and took office again. So long as we Irish can control the contracting business and be aldermen we need not worry about who writes the nation's songs."

"But sitting still and waiting for a fat job to drop in your lap like Dead Sea fruit, as the poet put it, is the bunk. At the Battle of Waterloo, Napoleon said to his guards, 'Up guards, and at 'em,' and they upped and atted 'em.' That's the way to get things, Kelly, and it's getting things that counts, not just waiting them."

"I have known girls who went dippy in the bean over some John and sat around and waited for him to ask them while some other girl poned and joned, by hustling for him and not waiting."

"But I guess there are people just born to be cops and get fallen arches, while others whose destiny is to be born of honest Irish parents and grow up to be alderman and wear a two quart hat on St. Patrick's day. Maybe you are right in not going after it for you certainly would look funny in a high hat."

Among the NOTABLES

EDWARD JUDSON

EDWARD Z. C. JUDSON was an adventurous soul, whose ability for getting himself out of trouble was only surpassed by his ability to get into it again.

He was born August 1, 1822, into a perfectly proper Philadelphia family; and his father, being a lawyer, expected the son to follow in his footsteps. But young Judson upset these nice plans by running away to sea when he was thirteen. And it wasn't so long after this when, single-handed, he rescued a boat full of people who had been run down by a ferry. He was stationed on a ship in the East River, N. Y., at the time. His bravery caused such a stir he was appointed a midshipman by President Van Buren.

Out of trouble, you see, and a hero. Then into it again. The other midships, being Annapolis graduates, wouldn't eat with a fellow who had been an ordinary seaman—caste was very important then—so Judson challenged the whole bunch to a duel and came away unscathed and with the reputation of being the best shot in the navy. Out of trouble again, and getting famous.

He turned his hand to writing, and had a story accepted and was made a magazine editor—then was arrested for inciting a riot in the city. When he got out of that scrape, he began writing sensational serials for newspapers, turning out some four hundred thrillers. And then he began another political party, a semi-secret society called the "Know Nothings" (because that was their answer to all questions about themselves). Judson served through the Civil war as a scout with the Indians, was wounded 20 times, and was made a colonel. He ended his career in 1886.

Rules for Health

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE rich are not the rich in wealth. For richer he who's rich in health. Whatever goods you buy or sell, Who would stay rich must first stay well.

Man learns no wisdom in the schools More wise than these ten simple rules:

1. Who works indoors, outdoors, must play, And walk at least a mile a day.
2. Closed windows always are a sin, So let a little outdoors in.
3. And, if indoors by day you keep, Then out-of-doors you ought to sleep.
4. The hours to spend in slumber then For elders eight, for children ten.
5. Eat slowly, not too much of meat, And something rough as well as sweet.
6. Use water freely, it's about Our greatest boon, inside or out.
7. And walk and stand and sit erect; It helps your health and self-respect.
8. Breathe deeply, keep your mind serene, And keep both mind and body clean.
9. Avoid the folks who cough and sneeze Or violate such rules as these.
10. The tenth rule is of all the gem: Be moderate in all of them.

FROM HERO TO ZERO

By JAMES H. BORLAND

(© by Short Story Pub. Co.)

JULIAN GORDON, an athlete from the ground up, had come to Brockport as instructor in athletics. As he stepped off the train he suddenly felt the pressure of an unseen hand on his shoulder, and a timid voice greeted him with:

"Excuse me, sir, don't you want to fight?"

Turning upon his questioner, Gordon's look of puzzled surprise quickly gave way to a smile. Before him stood a well-dressed, mild-mannered little man, whose face seemed gentleness itself.

"I meant no offense, my dear sir," the stranger continued with a friendly smile. "I just asked it as a gentlemanly question, that's all. Don't you ever fight?"

"Why, I have been known to do such a thing," replied Gordon good-naturedly.

"Good for you," exclaimed the man, greatly elated. "My name is Lovejoy—Jeremiah Lovejoy. You look as though you'd do a fellow-man a favor. Will you fight?"

"Why are you so anxious to fight me? We never met before, so you cannot have anything against me."

"Not the first thing, my dear sir, nothing at all; but that isn't the point. Fighting makes a man of a fellow. It develops the body, strengthens the nerves and imparts grace and flexibility to the intellect. Now the minute my eye lit on you, I said to myself, 'there's a Christian gentleman. I'll bet my life he'll fight me.'"

"Isn't it unbecoming in a Christian gentleman to fight?"

"Unbecoming your grandmother! Why, my dear sir, the hardest blows in the world have been struck by Christians; and for ten thousand years the fighting man has been crowned as a hero while the fellow who handed out the milk of human kindness was downed as a Zero."

"So I suppose you are fighting for a front seat in the Hall of Fame?" queried Gordon.

"Exactly, and I expect to win, for God loves a hard hitter."

"How do you make that out? Let me ask you a question: Is the Lord tiding out 'love taps' when he hands us the cyclone, the tidal wave and the bolt of lightning? Hardly. Don't these solar-plexus swings teach us that the fighting spirit flourishes on high?"

"Are you a professional?" continued the instructor of athletics.

"Oh, no! I never took a boxing lesson in my life. I fight for the benefit of my health and to set a good example to others. It's the one real joy of my life."

"Do you generally win out?"

"Well, I don't always get the worst of it, but then I don't care a continental about that. Every man should be unselfish enough to help along a good cause."

The two had by this time reached the hotel.

"Well, sir, what do you say?" resumed the little man, familiarly inviting Gordon to a seat, after the latter had registered his name. "Will you fight?"

"I would rather not this morning."

"Because I don't feel well."

But a rousing good fight will bring you around all right. I am sure of it. For goodness' sake don't disappoint me now that you have raised my hopes. I haven't had a fight for a week."

"Can't you stand it another week?"

"Good Godfrey, no! With me, to live means to fight. I would rather go without food than without a fight."

"Why don't you tackle somebody else?"

"That's just it. I can't find anyone. I have exhausted all our native talent, so you see I have to take on strangers."

A traveling man was just entering the hotel, and Lovejoy, hastily excusing himself, rushed up to him with a proposal to fight.

"There! you see how it is," he continued in a doleful tone as he returned to Gordon. "No use asking them. They all refuse. You are the only one who's got any grit. Now, I'll tell you what I'll do. I never fight for money, but I'll give you $25 if you will stand up before me for half an hour. What do you say?"

"I don't believe I care to, today."

"How about tomorrow?"

"I'll think about it. How do you fight? I mean under what rules?"

"Any old way—jab, jolt, punch or pinch. Any style that comes handy but gives each fellow a square deal. You understand. Now, what do you say? Is it a go?"

"I said I would think about it."

"Well, as that seems the best I can do, I guess we'll have to let it go at that. But for goodness' sake don't weaken tomorrow."

Near midnight Gordon was awakened by loud knocking on his door.

"Who is there?" he demanded, with a yawn.

"It's me—Jeremiah Lovejoy."

"What in thunder do you want?"

"Excuse me, sir, I want to fight. It's no use—I can't sleep until I've had a few good rounds, so I thought maybe you'd just as soon accommodate me tonight as in the morning."

"If you don't clear out I'll knock you into the middle of next week," shouted Gordon.

"Excuse me, sir, I don't want to be disagreeable, but I've taken a liking to you and I ask it as a favor."

"All right, I'll fight you tomorrow. Now go and make your will."

"Good! That's a bargain! I knew you were made of the right stuff," came in grateful notes from the intruder, as he made his way downstairs. "I'll be around bright and early."

But he wasn't. For right here fate stepped in and Gordon saw nothing of Lovejoy the following day. In the evening, wondering what had become of him, he inquired at the hotel office.

"Oh!" answered the clerk in surprise. "We thought you knew. Mr. Lovejoy is at the hospital."

"Why did someone do him up?"

"No. It was an accident. Long before breakfast this morning he asked us to send his card to your room. Not wishing to disturb you at that hour, we told him you had gone out, whereupon he rushed madly for the door, exclaiming that he had an important engagement with you. Just as he was about to pass out he stumbled and fell, striking his head on the marble steps. When we reached him he was unconscious, so we sent him to the hospital."

"Have you heard how he was getting on?"

"Yes; he regained consciousness at noon and is doing well. The fall seems to have proved a blessing in disguise for him."

"What do you mean?"

"Why, it's the most curious coincidence. Two months ago Mr. Lovejoy, while quietly passing through our front door with a friend, fell in exactly the same spot and became unconscious. The moment he regained consciousness the notion took hold of him that he wanted to fight every man he met. Up to that time he was a most peace-loving citizen. In fact, abnormally so. He founded a society for the prevention of boxing exhibitions, caused a bill for the suppression of prize fighting to be introduced in our state legislature, and also delivered an address before the international peace congress."

"Yes, but you speak of his latest fall having proved a blessing."

"I was just coming to that," continued the clerk. "This afternoon the doctor at the hospital telephoned us that since regaining consciousness Mr. Lovejoy is his former self again, the gentle, peace-loving Lovejoy of old."

On hearing the startling news Gordon decided to pay a visit to the hospital. Apart from the little man's craze for fighting, the instructor in athletics had from the first felt himself drawn toward him. Besides, he considered himself in a way responsible for the accident.

After being cautioned by the house physician not to mention fighting, as that might upset the patient's nerves, he entered the ward and found Lovejoy propped up in bed.

"I am so glad you came," began the little man, cordially extending his hand. "I hope you have decided to accept the office of vice president of my society for the prevention of prize fighting, which I offered you the other day. I remember you held out that fighting develops the necessary martial spirit in a man, but I guess you have come around to my way of thinking."

"Certainly," assuaged Gordon in his desire to humor the patient. "You are quite right."

"Good!" exclaimed the other. "That's fine; another won over. Fighting," he continued excitedly, "is the most degrading, brutal"—but here the house physician thought best to interpose and Gordon excused himself.

"Doctor, how do you account for the astonishing change in your patient?" Gordon asked upon reaching the corridor.

"Why, only a day or two ago he kept pestering the life out of me to fight."

"Exactly," nodded the physician. "That bump he got on his head a few months ago shocked his nerve center of combativeness into violent action. It instantly changed him from an apostle of peace to a man of war, as it were. His fall a few days ago acted just as strangely with a reverse force. He is now perfectly normal and pacific, the original Lovejoy."

"By the way," added the physician as Gordon took his leave, "I wish you luck as vice president of his society. You may regard it as a compliment, but as he seems to have taken a fancy to you, you will probably find it quite as difficult to dodge his peace projects in the future as his fighting proposals in the past."

War Ambulances

The French was following the revolution of 1789 brought the ambulance service along with other military innovations. An organized system for the transportation of wounded, was first introduced by Baron Larrey, the French military surgeon in the Army of the Rhine in 1792. It was not until the latter part of the Civil war that the ambulance obtained proper recognition and development in the introduction of a uniform system by an act of congress in March, 1864.

Bees Ended Fracas

The customers of a village inn at Prohnsdorf, Prussia, became boisterous and a free-for-all fight developed. The landlord did not have a bouncer and did not fancy the job for himself. He rushed out and brought back a beehive. After putting on a mask, he released the bees. The insects did their work swiftly and thoroughly, and with in a minute every one of the combatants had fled.

Mother's Cook Book

From four things, God preserve us: a painted woman, a conceited valet, salt beef without mustard, and a late dinner.—Italian.

MUTTON AND SAUCES

MUTTON is one of our most wholesome meats and would be far more popular with every one if the skin were carefully removed before cooking. The woolly flavor which is so objectionable is found in the skin. One of the important things to remember when serving lamb or mutton is that it should be served piping hot, as the fat hardens so quickly that it leaves an unpleasant taste on the tongue. All serving dishes and platters should be kept piping hot.

Soyer Lamb Chops.

Broil lamb chops until well cooked. When cool cover with a thick white sauce to which a spoonful of chopped ham has been added, with the proper seasoning; cool, dip into egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat just before serving. Keep hot in the oven. French chops are best served this way.

Casserole of Rice and Mutton.

Line a mold, slightly greased, with steamed rice. Fill the center with two cupfuls of finely-chopped cooked mutton, highly seasoned with salt, pepper, cayenne, celery salt, onion juice and lemon juice; then add one-fourth of a cupful of cracker crumbs, one egg slightly beaten, and enough hot broth or water to moisten. Cover the meat with the rice; cover the rice with a buttered paper to keep out the moisture while steaming. Steam 45 minutes. Serve unmolded on a platter surrounded with tomato sauce.

Roast Saddle of Mutton.

A saddle of mutton is the loin cut off in one piece; it is considered one of the favorite roasting pieces. Sprinkle the meat with salt and pepper, place in a baking pan on a rack and dredge with flour. Bake in a hot oven, basting frequently and allow ten or fifteen minutes to the pound, depending upon how it is to be served. Mutton may be served rare, but lamb never. Serve with a brown gravy and currant jelly.

The leg of mutton is roasted in the same way. In making the gravy allow two tablespoonfuls of fat for each cupful of gravy served. Pour off all the fat and measure the desired amount, adding two tablespoonfuls of fat to three of flour, cook until well browned; then add one cupful of water or broth to the portions of flour and fat. Season with salt and pepper and add one glass of currant jelly to the gravy bowl.

FAVOR FABRIC COMBINATIONS; TWO-PIECE BALBRIGGAN FROCK

In the designing of present-day frocks, it is evident that stylists are proceeding along the theory that two materials are better than one. Just now the craze is for gray georgette or crepe de chine, likewise dull crepe satin trimmed with velvet of a darker shade. The effect is all that can be desired. Indeed, these charming gray costumes are at the moment outrivalling in popularity the frocks in tan or sand shades.

A most effective fabric combination of that of georgette with crepe satin. The luster of the one offsets the dull finish of the other. In black or the darker shades the idea is worked out in a thoroughly practical manner in for juniors it is a victorious achievement. It is the young girl who wears it most becomingly. Perhaps this is because the simple lines of jumper and skirt carry the very spirit of youth in their contour.

Of course one of the new year resolves of the mother in the home is to accomplish an early program of sewing. School clothes must be provided for the children and especially does the growing girl require fashionable and practical appareling.

The first consideration in a sewing campaign being material, here are a few suggestions as to fabric selection. Balbriggan and jersey have "been tried and not found wanting" in all modish frocks for daytime wear. The dress pictured presents an interesting study in that the satin forms yoke, skirt portion and applied plaits, while georgette serves for the long blouse portion. This is a very pretty suggestion for a between-season gown.

The newest idea for spring woollens is to combine materials alike in texture but of contrasting color. A gray flannel collared, cuffed and bordered with like material in pencil blue indicates the latest in fashion.

Other information from style headquarters stresses the plain-colored skirt with tunic or blouse in gay print. Sometimes the tunic assumes a redingote aspect posed over a satin slip the requirements of style, service and good looks. Undoubtedly these materials are a very wise buy for this time of the year. They are available not only in solid colors but in heather mixture, in gay stripes and in the new so-called "dusty" tones and tints which would be gay indeed were they not exquisitely mellowed into pastel colorings.

Make the plain or heather balbriggan like the model shown to the left in the picture. Be sure to take mental note of every style detail. Observe first of all the modish cut of the sleeve, which follows an epaulet line from neck over shoulder to armhole. As to the scallops, it would in which is revealed at the front from a low neckline.

Printed crepe de chine bordered with the material in solid color is the basis for very clever frocks. It is said that later on these crepe de chine combinations will include a costume cape to match. Indeed, fashion threatens to attach a cape to most anything in the way of blouse, wrap or dress this coming spring.

It is said that manufacturers both of silk and woolen alert to the prospect of combination effects are helping the cause along by producing plain fabrics which exactly match some leading shade in the printed or novelty weave fabric.

In regard to the everywhere-so popular two-piece frock, as a fast-deed be a "sin of omission" should they not be faithfully copied, for scalloping is the smartest trimming feature of the moment. Everything is being scalloped quite as lavishly as in days of old when grandmother dear scalloped even her flannel petticoats. That same humble embellishment of the long ago is now the pride of the most exclusive couturier.

Striped balbriggan makes up very smartly, as the picture to the right herewith will verify. It looks best in blouse or jumper posed over a skirt of plain material. Besides, latest fashion calls for gay-colored or striped tunics worn with skirts in solid colorings.

SUCCESSFUL CARE OF FOOD DURING WINTER

Cold Box Built in the Side of a House—1. Situation of a Cold-Storage Box in the Kitchen Wall—2. Interior View of Ventilated Cold-Storage Box—3. A Ventilated Closet Like This Is Good for Storing Food in Winter.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

During the winter season sometimes the housekeeper's vigilance in the care of food supplies becomes relaxed. She places the same reliance on Jack Frost that was formerly accorded to the iceman, and does not always do a fair share of the work necessary to keep foods in good condition.

Successful care of food in the home depends very largely on whether there is a good storeroom, suitable containers, and an icebox or some other means of keeping foods cool. The United States Department of Agriculture points out. Merely keeping perishable foods cool, however, does not eliminate the need for frequent inspection and picking over, discarding wilted leaves on vegetables and salad materials, for example, selecting for first use those pieces of fruit most likely to become over-ripe, and otherwise exercising the same care that one would in summer or any other season, to provide sanitary conditions where food is stored.

Set Box Outdoors.

When it seems no longer necessary to buy ice, foods can be kept cool in various other ways. If the refrigerator is used as a winter cold box without ice, it should be set out of doors, preferably on a screened porch, and ventilated by propping open one of the doors at all times. It should be cleaned and cared for regularly, as usual. In freezing weather food cannot be kept out of doors, however, and some imitated, protected place must be found for it.

If the cellar must be used as the chief storage place for food in cold weather, a dumb-waiter on which supplies can be lowered and raised soon pays for itself in time and strength saved. Since the bottom of the cellar is the coolest part, foods often keep best if set on the floor, provided it is clean and dry. If the floor is damp and earthy, a layer of clean bricks may be arranged under the food. If there is a furnace in the main part of the cellar, it is generally too warm and dry for the winter storage of fruits and vegetables, but a storeroom can often-times be partitioned off and so ventilated that the temperature is kept constantly cool.

In a cold, dry climate food may be successfully kept in an air-shaft extending from the cellar or the lower floor of the house to the roof, and equipped with a door opening into the kitchen or pantry and wire or perforated shelves of convenient height. Both ends of this shaft should be screened. It will be usable for the greater part of the year.

Best Cold Box.

One of the best cold boxes for storing food in winter is the type projecting out of a kitchen window or built in the side of the house, with a door opening into the kitchen. Such a cold box should be closed entirely when food is in it, except for screened openings allowing a current of air to pass through it at all times. These openings should be placed so that dust will not blow upon foods in the cold box.

All foods and food materials that are to be used without washing, such as butter, cheese, or sugar, should be wrapped or kept in covered receptacles, whether stored in the refrigerator or in the pantry, cellar or any other place.

OLD FOWL SERVED AS FAMILY TREAT

Chicken and Vegetables Form Delicious Blend.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

When some of the older birds are being culled from the poultry flock, plan to treat the family to fowl en casserole with vegetables. The chances are that the oldest rooster will not be recognized in this combination. The long, slow, moist cooking in the roaster dish makes even drumsticks tender, while the flavors of chicken and vegetables form a delicious blend. This is also the kind of "dinner in one dish" that is easy for the homemaker to prepare long in advance of the meal hour.

The United States Department of Agriculture gives the following directions for preparing fowl en casserole with vegetables:

5-pound fowl 2 stalks celery
3 carrots 1 green pepper
1 onion

Cut the fowl into convenient pieces for serving. Slice or chop the vegetables into very small pieces. This can be done quickly on a tin vegetable slicer. Dust the pieces of chicken with flour and brown them delicately in a small quantity of fat. As the chicken is removed from the frying pan, place it in the casserole. Then pour the chopped vegetables into the frying pan and let them absorb all the browned fat from the chicken, before placing them in the casserole. Add enough hot water to keep the mixture from sticking to the dish, place the cover in position, and cook for three to four hours, or until the fowl is tender. Just before serving, remove the pieces of fowl, add a cupful of milk which has been blended with one and one-half tablespoons of flour, and cook for ten minutes. Pour this sauce over the chicken or replace the chicken in it and serve from the casserole. Flaky boiled rice, baked or plain boiled potatoes are a good background to serve with this tasty chicken dish.

Mending Rubber

Thin spots in rubbers can be mended at home by applying a cement made from five cents' worth of rubber dissolved in benzine. First apply benzine an inch or more round the hole and scrape until clean. Then apply the rubber with a brush, as quickly as possible, so that it will not harden.

Pedestrian Greatest Victim of Automobile Accidents

THE PEDESTRIAN is the greatest sufferer in automobile fatalities, according to records analyzed by the Stewart-Warner Safety Council for the prevention of automobile accidents. No complete record is available for the United States as a whole, but a report based on 3,023 auto fatalities occurring in the first seven months of 1925, covering a population of thirty-one million, is significant. Two thousand of these 3,023 fatalities have been classified according to type. Sixty-eight per cent of the victims were pedestrians, 11.5 occurred with another motor vehicle; 7 per cent with horse vehicles, 4.2 with fixed objects such as lamp posts, 3.5 per cent with street cars, 2.7 with railway trains and 1.4 per cent with bicycles. The remaining 6.8 per cent involved no collision. The small proportion involving railway trains is encouraging and doubtless due to the gradual abolition of unguarded grade crossings. The menace to the pedestrian, however, is alarming, and calls for greater care on his part in crossing streets and on the drivers for more careful driving.

which atmospheric conditions are changed by sun spots, comets and eclipses. Even the aurora borealis has been investigated, but it had never been suggested that the phases of the moon might have anything to do with the adenoïd performance of distant singers.

R. C. Therrein, an electrical engineer of Chicago, has forwarded to J. K. Smith, director of the national tests, a report covering a period of eighteen months. He suggested that it be investigated during the February tests on the night of the ninth, between 10 and 11 o'clock, and possibly at other times during the year.

"Eighteen months ago I discovered quite accidentally that distance reception was almost impossible on a night when the moon was full and high in the sky," said Mr. Therrein in his report. "I thought, of course, that this might be a coincidence, but I remembered what I had learned regarding the magnetic effect of the moon on the tides, and it occurred to me that such a visible electrical display ought to have a definite influence on the ionized stratum of atmosphere or whatever it is that carries on, deflects or blocks radio waves. Each 'silent night' I made careful note of reception conditions and lunar phases, and gradually I built up the evidence to show that my supposition was at least worthy of further investigation."

As a result of his conclusions, Mr. Smith has sent out notices to the 4000 observers who will take part in the tests this month, asking them to make notations during the period of the survey.

trive a radio. It worked, but only one child could listen at a time.

By a score of 18 to 16 and with both teams fighting hard from start to finish, Coach William Foote's Point Loma high school basketball team nosed out Coach Mike Morrow's Memorial junior high cagers in a fast extra-period game staged early this week on the Memorial court. The final half ended with the two clubs in a tie, 12 to 12, necessitating a two-minute playoff period. The Point Loma team won the game from the fire with a well placed shot from the center of the court.

Quaintly Picturesque Is the Formal Party Frock

Fickle and capricious is Madame Fashion and she is certainly living up to her reputation in the matter of this season's party frocks. She has changed her allegiance from the simple sheathlike gown to the picturesque type whose bouffant skirt measures yards and yards around the hemline.

Some call these lovely full-skirted slither creations period gowns, others dignity with the title robe de style. By either name they are beautiful to behold. The inspiration for these portrait types may be traced to early colonial days, to the 1830 fashions or even unto the magnificent court of Louis XVI where exquisite ladies graced the scene in gowns of shimmering silks, lace-trimmed and flower-garlanded.

So now, when you order your next party dress, let it be of pastel-toned taffeta, with much fine lace on the full skirt and around the low neck, with dainty silk flowerets here and there.
